CONDITIONAL USE APPLICATION

Evansville, Wisconsin

Version: September 14, 2005

FACT SHEET

What is a conditional use?

A conditional use is a land use that would not be appropriate generally or without restriction throughout a specified area but which, if controlled as to the number, area, location, or relation to the neighborhood, could promote the public health, safety, or general welfare.

What is the purpose of a conditional use permit?

A conditional use permit allows for the possibility of a conditional land use to exist within the city's zoning code. Conditional use permits are often required to protect residential neighborhoods against potentially disruptive uses. For example, uses which might generate substantial amounts of noise, odor, traffic, or are otherwise incompatible with the neighborhood.

It is the responsibility of the property owner to demonstrate that the use will not create major undesirable impacts on nearby properties, the environment, or the community as a whole. The Evansville Plan Commission may issue a conditional use permit after considering the appropriateness of the use in the proposed location and evaluating how potential undesirable impacts, if any, will be addressed.

What are some examples of uses requiring a conditional use permit?

Some examples of conditional uses include: restaurants, taverns, theaters, arcades, indoor commercial entertainment community living arrangements, vehicle sales or rental, drive through facilities, group day care centers, vehicle repair and maintenance uses, car washes, personal storage facilities, group developments, or heavy industrial uses.

What information is required to apply for a conditional use permit?

The applicant must submit maps clearly identifying the property and location of the proposed use. A written description of the proposed conditional use describing the type of activities, buildings, and structures proposed for the subject property and their general locations and a site plan are also required. The applicant should also provide written justification as to the reasons why the applicant believes the proposed conditional use is appropriate and does not create undesirable impacts on nearby properties, the environment, or the community.

What is the process?

The applicant is encouraged to meet with the City Planner or City Administrator to discuss any questions prior to the submission of the application. After the application is submitted, it will be reviewed by city staff who will check it for completeness and evaluate whether the use is in harmony with the goals of the City's comprehensive plan. The Plan Commission will hold a public hearing, consider the staff recommendations, and make a decision within 60 days of the public hearing. There is a fee of $300, plus reimbursement of municipal consulting costs. (This fee is in addition to the $300 fee for site plan review.)

Are there opportunities for public input?

A public hearing will be scheduled for a Plan Commission meeting. Notice of the hearing will be sent to property owners within 250 feet of the subject property, posted at City Hall, and published in the Evansville Review. Interested individuals are encouraged to contact city staff with questions prior to the hearing and attend the hearing to share their opinions regarding the application.

Note: This fact sheet is prepared to facilitate an understanding about conditional use permits. Applicants should refer to the City's zoning code for further explanation and requirements. Please contact the City Planner at 608-882-2266 if you have any questions.

BUILDING AND NEW CONSTRUCTION PERMITS

Contact: David Wartenweiler, Building Inspector 608-882-2264
dave.wartenweiler@ci.evansville.wi.gov

A building permit is required for all new principal buildings, all additions, and all new accessory buildings – including decks and garages, and fences – prior to the commencement of construction within the City of Evansville. In addition, a building permit is required for any work (interior or exterior) valued at more than $1,000 or any exterior work to a structure in the City's Historic District (click here for a map).

Proposed repairs or improvements to the exterior of any structure with the City's Historic District requires prior review and comment by the City's Historic Preservation Commission (HPC). For additional information about the HPC go to <http://www.ci.evansville.wi.gov/visitors/history.htm> or call the City Clerk/Treasurer's office at 608-882-2266.

See Section 3G for specifics on City of Evansville demolition regulations within the Historic District.

All building permits are available at the Clerks office. The City's Building Inspector issues new construction permits. All building permits issued must be placed within a visible location on the construction site; these permits expire 24 months after the date issued.

All accessory structures require a minimum of 3' setback from any property line and within a minimum of 10' from any residence. Fences may be located up to the property lines; however, no fence may be built higher than 6' tall. All additions, including decks, must include a plot plan showing the required setbacks. Generally, most residential side yard setbacks are 8'.

Current City of Evansville Fee Schedule* for Building Permits and Land Use and Development Projects is available online at: <http://www.ci.evansville.wi.gov/code/applicationforms.htm>

This includes fees for land use actions such as annexation, change in zoning, conditional use permit, land division, and site plan review.

LAND OWNER-INITIATED ZONING MAP AMENDMENT APPLICATION

Evansville, Wisconsin

Version: April 20, 2005

FACT SHEET

What is meant by zoning?

Zoning is a legislative process through which the City Council divides the municipality into districts or zones, and adopts specific regulations for each of the districts concerning the use of land and the placement, spacing, and size of buildings. Zoning represents a democratic method for setting the ground rules for how development can occur within the community.

What is the purpose of zoning?

The primary goal of zoning is to avoid or minimize disruptive land use patterns involving incompatible land uses. Other goals that a community attempts to address through zoning could include: reducing congestion on public streets; facilitating the creation of a convenient, attractive and harmonious community; facilitating the provision of adequate police and fire protection, transportation, water, sewerage, schools, parks, playgrounds, and other public requirements; protecting against the overcrowding of land; encouraging economic development activities; providing for the preservation of agricultural land; promoting the creation and preservation of affordable housing; and encouraging the most appropriate use of land within the locality.¹

How does zoning work?

A zoning ordinance consists of two parts: a map and text. The map shows how a community is divided into different use districts or zones. The text explains the zoning rules that apply in each zoning district and the procedures for administering and applying the zoning ordinance.

Can the zoning of a property be changed?

Yes, the property owner may submit an application for rezoning. A map of the property and surrounding land must accompany the application. The property owner should include a written statement or justification for the request, including the reasons why the applicant believes the proposed amendment is in harmony with the recommendations of the City's Master Plan. There is an application fee of $150, plus reimbursement of municipal consulting costs.

Are there opportunities for public input?

A public hearing will be scheduled for a Plan Commission meeting. Notice of the hearing will be sent to property owners within 250 feet of the subject property, posted at City Hall, and published in the Evansville Review. Interested individuals are encouraged to contact city staff with questions prior to the hearing, as well as attending the hearing to share their opinions regarding the proposed zoning change.

Note: This fact sheet is prepared to facilitate an understanding about zoning and the rezoning process. Applicants should refer to City's zoning code for further explanation and requirements. Please contact the City Planner at 882-2266 if you have any questions.
